

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a method for identifying the type of tire installed on a vehicle. At least one characteristic tire property describing the tire type installed on the motor vehicle is determined from the peak-frequency f_p of the frequency spectrum of at least one motor vehicle tire.